Reagan to ask Congress for federal tax reforms

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan plans to ask Congress in his State of the Union Message to overhaul and simplify the federal income tax code by lowering rates and narrowing deductions, administration sources said Wednesday.

The proposal, described by one official as long-term "major tax reform," is expected to be one of the major themes in the address Reagan will make to a joint session of Congress on Jan. 25, according to the sources, who did not want their names used.

The officials said Reagan has no specific plan in mind, preferring instead to develop some firm proposals with Congress. But they said the thrust of his thinking is along the lines of proposals that have become known as "flat-rate" income tax plans.

Under these plans, personal income tax rates are lowered but the amount of income subject to taxation is increased because of a narrowing or elimination of deductions, such as for medical expenses, state and local taxes, mortgage interest payments, business-related expenses, charitable contributions and a variety of miscellaneous items.

These expenditures now can be subtracted from income to lower a person's tax liability.

Members of Congress have expressed general interest in overhauling the tax system in such a way. Politically, however, there is serious doubt about whether Congress would be willing to eliminate such popular deductions as mortgage interest payments on homes, interest on tax exempt municipal bonds and similar items.

The sources said Reagan finds the approach appealing because it would simplify the tax code and lower the "marginal" tax rates — the highest percentage at which an individual's income is taxed.

Minor changes

Israeli officials said they would ask for minor changes in the American proposal, but they did not elaborate.

The Israeli army invaded Lebanon on June 6 to smash the Palestine Liberation Organization and forced the evacuation of thousands of guerrillas from Beirut in August, but thousands more are in northern and eastern Lebanon behind Syrian lines. The Syrians have been in Lebanon since snuffing out the 1975-76 Muslim-Christian civil war.

Israeli news reports said reasons for delaying Begin's visit to the United States would be to wait for Jordan's decision on whether to join Mideast peace talks, and for the findings of the judicial inquiry into the September Beirut massacre, which could shake Begin's government into calling an early election.

However, Begin's spokesman, Uri Porat, dismissed the reports as "ridiculous juvenile speculations," saying he could not imagine any U.S. administration taking such a line.

Congressman Howard Nielson said he is keeping his promise to hit the ground running in the nation's capital by managing to come up with a position on the House's most sought after committee.

Nielson, representative for Utah's 3rd Congressional District, spoke Wednesday night at a meeting of the BYU College Republicans.

Nielson was one of 25 congressmen who were angling for a position on the Energy and Commerce committee. "I tried to maneuver myself into a position on this committee for three reasons," he said. "First, this region has no Republican representatives on this committee. Second, representation is needed because of the nature of this district. Third, I have some experience in these areas."

He said he had worked on pipeline projects in the past at Stanford University and had worked in coal gasification research.

Nielson said he had to go after the votes necessary to get a position on the committee. "I got the support of the three-member states, which are states that also have three representatives. I convinced the one-member states to vote for me and I got the support of Bob Michel, who is the House Minority Leader."

In an interview with The Daily Universe, Nielson said he feels he is in a good position to be heard. "I think getting on the Energy and Commerce committee positions me very well to make an impact on the Clean Air Act, the integral-vista legislation and the deregulation of natural gas," he said.

Nielson said he has already ruffled some feathers concerning the possible nuclear waste repository in Utah, which would come under the jurisdiction of his committee.

Nielson said he would like to see the U.S. continue to develop resources so that it does not have to rely on other countries for oil products.

He said he is opposed to the five-cent gasoline tax increase for a number of reasons. "First, I object to taking one-fifth of it for mass transit. If it is, in fact, supposed to be a user fee, then it seems to me that the only part that should receive the funds is the roads themselves."

"Secondly, I think it is somewhat punitive on the trucking industry. Thirdly, the distribution formula is unfair to the large states with many miles of highway, such as Utah," he said.

Nielson said he hopes to help Geneva Steel by making sure that the provisions of the Clean Air Act are reasonable, but not punitive to the Orem plant. "Geneva does not want a carte blanche, but they do want to be considered," he said.

He will probably return to Utah every three weeks until his Provo-based field staff is fully trained, he said. "Bill Arsenault will head the field staff, which will be located in the Federal Building in Provo. I have an excellent staff here that will be able to provide top-notch constituent service," he said.

Provost business increases

Economic outlook good

By NANCY BRINGHURST
Staff Writer

Sales are up, confidence in the economy is on the rise, and that good old American buying spirit, despite a slow start before Christmas, wound up better than expected, according to various Provo merchants.

"We had an incredible Christmas; it wasn't at all what we expected," said Ron Summer, owner of a local clothing store. "Our store on 200 North in Provo had a 70 percent increase from last year."

Jan Fullmer, manager of a local jewelry store, had positive statements about the jewelry business. "We had a very good year," said Fullmer, "but 1983 is going to be a lot better."

Nationwide sales performances for major retailers were reportedly disappointing, with earnings up only slightly, according to retail analysts. Jeffery Feiner, an analyst with Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith Inc., said, "Trends in sales in December showed some minor improvement from the pace of the prior several months, but still reflected the difficult economic conditions and the high levels of unemployment."

Feiner said although sales gains were "modestly" below expectations, he believed the profit picture for retailing was still "relatively favorable."

Sears, Roebuck and Co., the nation's largest retailer, said its sales were up just 2.9 percent from a year earlier. Chuck O'Brien, store manager for Sears in Provo, said the local store experienced the same increase, adding that he felt "positive" about the increase.

Nationally, Sears was the biggest retailer, with K-Mart, J.C. Penny, and F.W. Woolworth & Co. coming in second, third and fourth.

Video rentals were up over last year at a local rental store, said owner Greg Wilder. "We feel great about last year, and January is doing even better."

Will Feller, owner of another local jewelry store, said he was surprised at how well his store did, but he thinks the Christmas promotion in downtown Provo this year was largely responsible for the increased traffic.

"We really worked hard on our 'Old Fashioned Christmas in Provo' promotion," said Feller. "For the first time in years, the majority of the merchants in Provo got together to invest in a common goal."

"We wanted to create an atmosphere that not only attracted shoppers to individual stores, but to all of downtown Provo to enjoy the special decorations, entertainment, free movie matinees, and the Christmas parade. It was a great success; we plan to make it a yearly tradition."

U.S. News & World Report said in a recent issue that an economic recovery is coming, gauging the index of leading indicators. Washington's main barometer of business activity.

An increase of 8 percent was recorded in November from October, making it the seventh rise in eight months. Post-Yule sales are reportedly strong across the country, with merchants trying to keep revenue gains going into the new year.

"I think the critical years are over; things are going to be better," said Gary Goughly, a Provo City Council member.

"We had a good December, but January has been incredible. Provo is in the beginning of a renaissance period," said Goughly. "Merchants are working together to rejuvenate downtown Provo. There's a feeling that Provo's going to make it."

"Utah County is the second largest county in the state," said Goughly. "The Air Force is the second largest county in the state. The Excelsior Hotel will be finished soon; eighteen conventions are already booked. This is going to greatly increase our tourist traffic."

Pilots wary of snow
after Potomac crash

WASHINGTON (AP) — A year after Air Florida Flight 90 plunged into the Potomac River in a snowstorm, winter flying still carries its hidden dangers. But safety experts say the airlines and pilots now have greater respect for what ice and snow can do to a jetliner.

The crash of the Boeing 737, killing 78 people moments after takeoff, sent government investigators and the industry scurrying to re-examine ways to deal with the treacheries of foul weather.

A year later, officials agree the accident exposed some serious gaps in air safety and jolted many within government and the airlines out of a sense of complacency about ice and snow.

"The extreme importance of the so-

Third resignation in two weeks

Arms director quits under fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eugene V. Rostow, director of the embattled U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, resigned Wednesday under pressure from the White House and a small group of conservative Republican senators.

Congressional sources said President Reagan would nominate Kenneth Adelman, deputy to U.N. ambassador Jeane Kirkpatrick, to take Rostow's place.

There was no immediate comment from the White House.

Sharp words

Rostow, 69, a veteran of World War II, issued a sharply worded statement that implied Reagan had forced his ouster. In it, Rostow said "in recent days it has become clear that the president wished to make changes."

The resignation, third by a major administration official in two weeks, came amid mounting confusion about Reagan's objectives in on-going arms control negotiations with the Soviet Union and sometimes conflicting stands by Rostow and other principal officials.

"It has been a privilege to serve as director of ACDA for the last 20 months," Rostow said in his brief statement. "In recent days it has become clear that the president wished to make changes. In response to his request, I have tendered my resignation."

Reagan names woman to fill Cabinet position

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan on Wednesday nominated former Rep. Margaret Heckler to be secretary of Health and Human Services — and the third woman with Cabinet rank in his administration — after Richard S. Schweiker resigned to head a lobbyist group.

Heckler, who was defeated in a bid for a ninth congressional term from Massachusetts last November, described the new job as "the hardest assignment in Washington."

"You have offered me the greatest challenge of my life," she said to the president in a White House ceremony also attended by Schweiker, who in quitting the HHS post became the fourth member of Reagan's original Cabinet to resign.

Heckler, 51, is the second woman named to the Cabinet in a week, following Reagan's choice of Elizabeth Hanford Dole to head the Transportation Department. Jeane Kirkpatrick holds a Cabinet-level post as delegate to the United Nations.

The White House has acknowledged having a "woman problem," with female citizens giving the president lower marks than males because of his policies.

Wyoming eyes arrested pair

COQUILLE, Ore. (AP) — Wyoming authorities are investigating whether two men arrested near Coos Bay, Ore., are connected with the deaths of two German tourists found shot in Wyoming last year, a Coos County sheriff's spokesman says.

Dwayne M. Willett, 44, and his son, Harley E. Willett, 19, have been in custody since Friday and are awaiting extradition to Utah, where they face murder charges in the shooting death of a supermarket worker.

Coos County Detective Sgt. Mike Cook said Tuesday that authorities in Sweetwater County, Wyo., had contacted his office seeking information about the two men.

At the same time, one of Rostow's top negotiators, Richard Starr, also was stepping down, according to the congressional sources, who asked not to be named. Starr, based in Vienna, was in charge of negotiations to reduce NATO and Warsaw Pact ground forces in Europe. He was summoned home recently and reports that he would be disciplined for making unauthorized public statements about the progress of those talks.

Drew Lewis, the secretary of Transportation, quit after Christmas, and Richard Schweiker resigned as secretary of Health and Human Services on Tuesday.

Rostow had been assailed by a number of conservative Republican senators, who last week forced the ouster of another deputy, Robert Grey. Rostow, a Democrat, responded by accusing them of trying to take over the agency.

But he said he was concerned that the dispute could hurt the U.S.-Soviet negotiations due to resume next month in Geneva, Switzerland.

Grey ambushed

Charging that Grey was ambushed, Rostow said in the AP interview that "people who don't want any agreement at all" were trying to take over the arms control agency.

"The Soviets can try to exploit the doubts, and they get very anxious at the thought that any extremist American group might take charge of American nuclear policy," he said.

Rostow said he was trying to steer a course between those who might want an agreement at any cost and those who wanted none at all.

A conservative Democrat, Rostow was frequently critical of the Soviet Union in his public statements, accusing them of trying to gain nuclear superiority over the United States.

At the same time, he strongly supported Reagan's proposals to sharply reduce U.S. and Soviet strategic nuclear bombers, submarines and missiles and to eliminate medium-range missiles from Europe.

Couple shot to death in Vernal apartment

VERNAL, Utah (AP) — A man and a woman were shot to death Wednesday morning in what may be a murder-suicide, Vernal police said.

The employer had gone to the apartment to see why the man had not shown up at work, Downard said.

The couple were identified as Tony and Marla Clark of Vernal, Downard said. The woman was about 24 years old and the man about 28, he said.

"The husband shot his wife numerous times ... and then committed suicide," Downard said.

Five times

When police arrived at about 10 a.m., they found the woman had been shot at least five times with bullets from a small-caliber weapon, Downard said.

He said the woman's hair also had been crudely cut, possibly by her assailant.

The male victim appeared to have been killed by a single shot, Downard said.

He said the bodies were taken to the Utah Medical Examiner's office in Salt Lake City, where autopsies were to be performed Thursday.

A .22-caliber rifle and a note apparently written by the male victim were found at the scene, he said. Downard said he did not know what the contents of the note were.

Man wields revolver; robs local restaurant

A young man wielding a small revolver held up a local fast food restaurant Wednesday night and may have evaded capture by slipping into a crowd that was just leaving a movie theater.

No shots were fired in the incident that occurred shortly after 9 p.m. at Arby's, on the corner of 200 W. 1290 North, according to Detective George Pierpont. The restaurant is across the street from the Fox Theater.

The detective said a white male in his late teens or early twenties entered Arby's, opened his coat showing employees a small revolver and demanded money. The bandit fled on foot after workers gave him what Pierpont described as "an undetermined amount of cash."

He reportedly ran south, probably passing through a crowd that was just leaving the theater. Officer Tim Meyer was the first officer on the scene but said he could not locate the robber.

"He timed it just right," Meyer said, referring to the crowd the man may have used to his advantage. Pierpont said police were still searching the area for the man at press time last Wednesday night.

Witnesses said the man was about 5-foot-8, with a slender build, and blond hair.

Police get lead in robbery case

ective Keith Teuscher of the Police Department said he has a lead on a suspect in the Tuesday armed robbery of Domino's Pizza, 65 E. 1150 in Provo.

Warren Grossebauer said no one has been made. He said a man wearing a ski mask trying a rifle walked into Domino's at about 1:30 a.m. Tuesday and fled.

Roundy said she was in riding with two drivers when the suspect walked in the door. The officer ordered the two drivers to lay floor, but both remained stand-he said.

Roundy said she started walking toward the suspect when he said, "This isn't a joke," and fired one shot into the wall.

The two drivers then dropped to the floor. Roundy said she took the money from the safe and handed it to the suspect.

Grossebauer said the robber walked away with about $1,300.

He described the suspect as a male Caucasian in his twenties, about 6 feet tall, and weighing about 150 pounds with dark hair and dark eyes. Teuscher said armed robberies have increased 300 percent in Provo in the past year.

Board of Governors of Utah ey Hospital on Tuesday nted E. Bruce McIlff, an alumn of BYU, as the facility's new medical director.

McIlff, the medical director is the medical administrative post at Valley Hospital and is second to the administrator in its executive responsibilities.

McIlff said he has mixed emotions the new position because he has with the preceding director, and Call, and knows what a big responsibility it is.

"My role, as I see it, is to help ensure continuation of progress and to assist the hospital in realizing its destiny and its potential as the major medical center in central and southern Utah," McIlff said.

"I intend to foster improved communications among the hospital, the medical staff and the public, as well as preserve and strengthen the private practice of medicine."

McIlff is a member of the board of governors and was the chairman of the Radiology Department.

Program working

Students 'drop' fast

More students are dropping classes faster because of the new add/drop policy, according to Eriend Peterson, BYU registrar.

Under the new program, seats in classes are available earlier, helping students add classes more easily, he said.

But some faculty members feel it will be difficult to settle into classes for a time because students may be adding them to their schedules for several days.

In 1976 there were two weeks when students could drop their classes free of charge. At that time, only 30 percent of the students dropped their classes during the first week of school and 70 percent the second week, Peterson said.

The next year, only one week free of charge was allowed, and this created the opposite effect, with 70 percent dropping that week, and only 30 percent dropping the following week.

The new policy has been hard on those who cannot decide on classes early, Peterson said. Another difficulty with the present system is the large number of students who drop, which creates a strain on the Registration Office. The office now handles the same number of students in two days that it used to handle in one week.

Last year 1,500 students dropped classes the first day in comparison with 10,000 this year, Peterson said.

The Deans' Council and department chairmen will evaluate the new policy's effectiveness, he said. The program will be in effect next year unless sufficient problems are discovered.

Creative dating ideas to be topic of forum

"The Dating Syndrome: More Than Playing Games?" will be the topic of a forum today at 10 a.m. in 173 SWKT.

The forum, sponsored by the Interpersonal Relations Center, will feature panelists with a variety of backgrounds and interests, said Susan Tittle, student forum supervisor.

The four panelists may not hold the record for the most dates, but they have some ideas on dating to share with other students, Tittle said.

Roger Malmroese, ASBYU Academics vice president, will be one of the panelists.

Another panelist will be Susie Owen, a dance instructor at BYU and a member of the Ballroom Dance Team. She is from Balboa, Calif., and has toured with Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus.

Michael Page, another panelist, is from Denver, Colo., and is working on his master's degree in marriage and family counseling. He is the skills lab manager for the Interpersonal Relations Center.

The final panelist, Joan Holtefeltz of Salt Lake City, is a graduate of the University of Utah. She is now working on a master's degree in history at BYU and is also the media director for the American Heritage classes.

Many students have taken advantage of the Let's Talk forums since they began last summer, Tittle said. There has been a good response to past forums, with topics including "Dating, Is It Worth the Hassle?" and "Dating, Who Does the Asking?"

Club Week swings

Students interested in joining a semester, said Leslie Clayton, Club Week chairman.

Performances and demonstrations by several clubs, such as the Mime Club and Karate Club, will take place daily at noon.

"Everyone is welcome to come in and browse and watch the performances," Clayton said.

There are more than 130 clubs on campus, said Kent Jorgensen, public relations director.

Staff picks winners

NFL tourney continues

By DOUG WILKS
Asst. Sports Editor

The NFL Super Bowl tournament steps into round two this week as the league's final eight teams square off on Saturday and Sunday.

The Daily Universe sports staffers were correct on five of last week's eight winners, picking all four of Saturday's victories, and then slipping to a dismal 1-3 performance on Sunday.

These weeks picks are even more difficult to make because the teams match up fairly evenly, but that's why we get the big bucks.

The Los Angeles Raiders renew an old rivalry this week when they entertain the New York Jets in the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Though the Raiders and the Jets sport fine passing attacks, this game will be the battle of the running backs. Rookie sensation Marcus Allen and Jet star Freeman McNeil will be playing on familiar turf as they try to thrust their respective teams into the AFC Championship game.

Allen starred at USC and McNeil was the power behind a strong UCLA attack that carried the Bruins past the Trojans three years ago. McNeil needs to repeat last week's 200-plus yard performance if the Jets are to win.

Jim Plunkett has had a good year in an on-again-off-again career. He has the edge in experience necessary to lead his team past the Jets and into the finals.

Gymnasts face Boise

This weekend the BYU women's gymnastics team will be competing against the Boise State Broncos in Boise.

The Cougars go into the dual meet after a third-place finish in the Rocky Mountain Open in Fort Collins, Colo., and a 170.75 to 170.25 loss to Utah State.

Debbie Hill, who coaches the team with her husband Rod, said this meet will prepare the team for the bigger meets that will be coming up.

The lineup for this Saturday's meet is not necessarily final for the season, Debbie said. "This will be yet another combination to see which girls work best where."

Only seven of the Cougars' nine team members will compete. Leslie Johns, a junior from Golden, Colo., majoring in animal science, and Kim Dahl, a freshman from Salt Lake City majoring in nursing, are both sidelined with knee injuries. Both gymnasts are expected to be able to compete before the month is over.

Y fails to qualify

The BYU tennis team failed to qualify for the Adidas/MGM Grand-Reno Tennis Classic Tuesday, finishing third behind Utah and Long Beach State in a six-team preliminary tournament.

Because of its win over BYU and Long Beach State in the preliminary tournament, Utah will compete in the Tennis Classic with some of the best collegiate tennis teams in America.

The Raiders by 2.
The Minnesota Vikings travel to Washington D.C. to take on the red-hot Redskins at RFK Stadium. Minnesota has played well in its last two games by defeating Dallas and Atlanta, but face a closely-knit Washington team.

The Redskins have the home field advantage and should have the game.

Washington by 7.
On Sunday, San Diego travels to Miami to try to duplicate last year's marathon victory over the Dolphins.

The Chargers barely squeaked by Pittsburgh last week, relying on fourth down plays and Steeler miscues for the victory. This week Dan Fouts faces the No. 1 pass defense in the league. Expect Miami to gain revenge by 2.

Sunday's final game pits Green Bay against Dallas on the Cowboys' home field.

Danny White has been having his problems with injuries that have resulted in rather questionable play. Green Bay is currently at the peak of its playing ability and is ready to dethrone the Cowboys. The Packers by 3.

Academics proposal called discriminatory

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The presidents of two predominantly black universities say a controversial measure upgrading academic requirements for athletes makes it tougher for black players to attend large, predominantly white institutions.

The measure, known as proposal 48, was passed Tuesday on a show of hands at the annual convention of the National Collegiate Athletic Association following a sometimes heated, three-hour debate.

"I hope this message goes out to black athletes at all institutions," said Dr. Joseph Johnson, president of Grambling State. "They don't want you at white institutions."

"They're saying to black athletes, 'If you want to play basketball or football, stay out of white institutions,'" said Dr. Jesse Stone, president of Southern University.

The proposal was written by an all-white committee from the American Council on Education. It demands a minimum number of math, English and science courses before a high school graduate can get an athletic scholarship. It also requires minimum scores of 700 on the SAT or 15 on the ACT college entrance exams, which black educators say are racially and regionally discriminatory.

Moments after adopting proposal 48, delegates approved what could be viewed as a loophole measure. It specifies that athletes who don't meet No. 48's requirements can receive athletic scholarships.

The Cougar grapplers went on to take the first five matches in what seemed to be a rout.

Fresno State, however, rallied and scored victories at the 158- and 167-pound classes. The Cougars then put the
